Profit of Apple Growing.

The apple is the great standard among fruits, as wheat is among grains, or potatoes among vegetables. Some localities, of course, give better returns than others, but everywhere the apple is looked to for a crop as the potato, and it depends much on the cultivator's skill in managing and selecting varieties as to the amount of returns. Niagara county, N. Y., is parading this year at 180,000 barrels, and in that county one tract of apple orchard produced for sale 600 barrels of fruit, which sold at $3 per barrel. One tree of Rhode Island Greenings produced 26 barrels. H. T. Brooks, Esq., at the New York State Fair, during one of the evenings' discussion, gave, among other evidence of the profits of apple growing, the following:

"A tree in Middlebury gave 11 barrels, four trees in LeRoy, 13 barrels each. Patrick McEntee, of Perry, took 14 barrels of Baldwins from one tree, and sold them to A. W. Wheelock for $60. Mr. True, of Castle, took 15 barrels of Gilliflowers from a single tree. Bnos Wright, of Middlebury, sold the product of two trees for $100. Two years ago, H. H. Wood, supervisor of Middlebury, sold the product of 33 trees of Northern Spies for $900. C. Cronk-hite sold the apples on less than four acres for $1,000; they were immediately resold for $1,500. He said that Edmund Morris, the admirable author of 'Ten Acres Enough,' who, by the way, with the unusual consistency of preaching farmers, had added 13 acres to his 'Ten,' wishing to do some 'talk' bragging, had told to 20 apple trees that paid their owner $225 one year. Here, said Major Brooks, is a story to match: Robert McDowell, of York, Livingstone county, has 22 trees, grafted nineteen years ago to Dutch Pippins, Greenings, Russets, &c., standing 35 to 40 feet apart—his soil sandy loam, annually ploughed and cropped, being also heavily manured every year, and protected by woods on three sides. He sold from these trees, after reserving his culls, in 1865, 163 barrels of apples for $779.50.

"Prescott Smead, of Bethany, Genesee county, from six acres, on clay and strong clay loam, sold as follows:

|-----------------------------|------------------|--------|
| 1862..... | 750 barrels..... | $2870 |
| 1863..... | 800 "..... | 1700 |
| 1864..... | 800 "..... | 2100 |
| 1865..... | 810 "..... | 4500 |
| 1866..... | 150 "..... | 863 |
| 1867 (estimated) 600 "..... | | 8000 |

"Add to the above, copied from his income report (and reports of this kind are not apt to be overstated), apples used in the family, and we have 100 barrels to the acre, and 24 barrels to the tree annually, for the whole six years, paying $400 per acre every year for the whole term.

"For practical cultivators there is another fact of great significance. This same orchard, after coming into full bearing for some ten years, received only ordinary care, which means scarcely any care at all, and its returns were very meagre. It was then heavily manured, ploughed shallow, and suffered to lie one year; then cross-ploughed and harrowed, and suffered to lie two years longer, all the time unworked, then it was manured again, and the same treatment repeated. The results were as has been stated.

"S. P. Lord, of Pavillion, bought a neglected, of course, unfruitful, orchard of seven acres—trimmed, manured, and ploughed it, when it immediately commenced bearing, and during the next six years yielded $6,000.

"Here commended careful, and moderate annual pruning where necessary, as contrasted with the too frequent slashing to which trees are subjected—keeping the heads of the trees low, which would favor ease in picking—objected strongly to the common neglect of cultivation, and also to the close cropping of the ground, in the attempt to obtain other products from the soil, the strength of which should be given to the trees. He cited cases where good clean culture had given high profits, and added that in nearly every instance where very large crops had grown on single trees, he has found those trees to stand near wood-piles, slop-grounds, barn-yards, or on other spots where they received a good supply of enriching material.—Horticulturist.

A LOW-COMEDY MULE.—In the spectacular performance of Humpty Dumpty, now running at the Olympic, a small mule is introduced, and is made to appear quite comically, by the dexterity of his heels.

About a fortnight ago the regular animal fell ill, and an amateur was substituted. When one of the characters touched the new mule to make him kick, he began in admirable style. He kicked off the fellow, and kicked him twice before he touched the boards. Then he ran towards several of the other dramatic persons, and kicked them. Every object on the stage, whether material or mental, he kicked off. Next he began on the scenery. He kicked down a whole forest, three good-sized cottages, a picturesque cascade, the Ritz, and Vesuvius in eruption, and was about to attack the "grand transmutation scene" from "Midsummer-Night's Dream," when a rope was thrown around his neck, and he was dragged off by the whole strength of the company, assisted by all the able-bodied supernumeraries.

The audience, many of whom supposed the obstreperous mule part of the performance, were delighted at his energy, and demanded, with deafening plaudits, a repetition of the scene. The uproar was so great that the manager came out and said that an intermission of fifteen minutes would be given to enable some of the actors to recover the "breath" that the mule had kicked out of them, and pledged his honor that the brute should never make another appearance on the Olympic stage.

At this the audience roared louder than ever, and for nearly half an hour the performance was suspended by the universal guffaw.

Every night since, the kicking mule has been called for, and the manager of the theatre has, in consequence, inserted an advertisement in the daily papers that the animal was mysteriously knocked in the head the same night of his successful debut.—Y. Y. Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.
